APPLICATION OF BASIC SPLINTS AND SLINGS

Aims : To demonstrate application of splints and slings

Objectives : At the end of the session the learners should know

- Definition of splint and slings
- Types of splints and slings
- Steps of application of splints and slings

Methodology :

SLABS : Slabs can be prepared by unrolling plaster bandage to a required length or by withdrawing the required length of layers from a plaster dispenser. This may be done with either wet or dry bandages which are folded out on a smooth surface. This average thickness of slabs for strengthening is 12-16 layers. The thickness might be adjusted from patient to patient. When using bandages care must be taken to see extends for the same distance. Short ends should be discarded because they cannot be held securely when the slab is immersed in water. The slab can be prepared in any width, depending on the needs of the situation. Sometimes a slab is used for initial immobilization and is completed later. Slabs must be smoothed carefully on a flat surface after they have been soaked. Plaster of Paris casts become supportive in three to five minutes, depending on the water temperature and the thickness of the cast.

Assessment : assessed by questionnaire

1. A _____ is a flexible immobilization device that allows room for swelling .
a) cast      b) splint      c) wrap      d) elastic bandage
2. How many people required to apply a traction splint properly
a) 2      b)3      c)4      d)5
3. Before a traction splint is applied ,a person should check circulation of injured limb which can be done by feeling for a pulse. Where in the leg should a person feel for the pulse ?
a) On the top of the thigh    b) on the knee cap    c) on inner part of ankle    d)top of shin
4.  Identify the splint used in immobilization of femur fracture ?
a) aeroplane splint
b) Bohler braun splint
c) Thomas splint

COMPRESSIVE BANDAGE

Aims : To learn basics principles of application of compressive bandages

Objectives : At the end of the session the learners should know

- Definition of compressive bandage
- Types of compressive bandages
- Steps in application of compressive bandage

Methodology :

A compression bandage is a type of stretchy bandage that is wrapped around a body part to place pressure on it. It is commonly used in first aid as part of a therapy known as RICE (rest, ice, compression, and elevation), and helps to reduce pain and swelling by restricting blood flow.

These bandage wraps are typically used to treat sprains and strains. But, they can also help to keep a body part stabilized, such as when there has been a rib fracture. The bandages may also be used to prevent or treat the build-up of fluid in the lower legs, known as edema

1. After application of dressing and bandage, you should check for

- a) vomiting    b) circulation    c) opposite limb circulation    d) none of the above

2. After bandaging John's finger became cold and tingling, he also complained of pain upon moving his fingers. You should now

- a) loosen the bandage                      b) giving pain killers like aspirin
c) massage the fingers                      d) warm the hand with hot water

3. Bandages promote healing by

- a) controlling bleeding    b) absorbing seepage    c) protect the wound from infection & draining

d)all of the above

4.After applying a bandage which observation is checked every ten minutes a)pulse b) capillary refill c) respiratory rate d)temperature

5. identify the image

a)crepe bandage b)roller bangage c) below knee slab d)1&2

6.Excess Tight bandage application in forearm fracture leads to

a) compartment syndrome b)promotes healing c) stabilizes fracture d)all of the above

7.Bandage should be ____ at the top and _____ at the bottom

a)loose,loose b)loose, tight c)tight , tight d)none of the above

8.Figure of 8 bandage is used at joints .state true or false

BASIC FRACTURE AND DISLOCATION MANAGEMENT

Aims : To learn basics principles of fracture management and dislocation management

Objectives : At the end of the session the learners should know

- Definition of fracture and dislocations
- Types of fractures and dislocations
- Steps in management of fractures and dislocation

Methodology :

- ❖ Fracture management can be divided into nonoperative and operative techniques. The nonoperative approach consists of a closed reduction if required, followed by a period of immobilization with casting or splinting. Closed reduction is needed if the fracture is significantly displaced or angulated.
- ❖ Treatments for dislocations include
  - Medication: to reduce pain from a dislocation
  - Manipulation: to return the bones to their proper places.
  - Rest: Once the joint is back in place, you may need to protect it and keep it immobile. Using a sling or splint can help the area heal fully.
  - Rehabilitation: Physical therapy exercises strengthen the muscles and ligaments around the joint to help support it.

APPLICATION OF BASIC SPLINTS AND SLINGS

Aims : To demonstrate application of splints and slings

- Definition of splint and slings
- Types of splints and slings
- Steps of application of splints and slings

Methodology :

SLABS : Slabs can be prepared by unrolling plaster bandage to a required length or by withdrawing the required length of layers from a plaster dispenser. This may be done with either wet or dry bandages which are folded out on a smooth surface. This average thickness of slabs for strengthening is 12-16 layers. The thickness might be adjusted from patient to patient. When using bandages care must be taken to see extends for the same distance. Short ends should be discarded because they cannot be held securely when the slab is immersed in water. The slab can be prepared in any width, depending on the needs of the situation. Sometimes a slab is used for initial immobilization and is completed later. Slabs must be smoothed carefully on a flat surface after they have been soaked. Plaster of Paris casts become supportive in three to five minutes, depending on the water temperature and the thickness of the cast.

Assessment : assessed by questionnaire

1. A _____ is a flexible immobilization device that allows room for swelling .
a) cast      b) splint      c) wrap      d) elastic bandage
2. How many people required to apply a traction splint properly
a) 2      b)3      c)4      d)5

a) On the top of the thigh    b) on the knee cap    c) on inner part of ankle    d)top of shin
4.  Identify the splint used in immobilization of femur fracture ?
a) aeroplane splint
b) Bohler braun splint
