1. Name and Features of the ILMS Software

The ILMS software used at PESIMSR is Libsoft. It is an Integrated Library Management System that is widely used in libraries worldwide due to its comprehensive features and flexibility. Key features of Libsoft include:

- Cataloging: Allows librarian to catalog books, journals, and other resources efficiently with Machine Readable Catalogue (MARC) records support.
- Circulation: Manages the check-in and check-out processes, renewals, reservations, and fines.
- OPAC (Online Public Access Catalog): Enables users to search for and locate library resources online.
- Acquisition: Handles the purchasing process of new materials, including orders, budgeting, and invoicing.

- Serials Management: Manages the subscription and arrival of journals and periodicals.
- Patron Management: Maintains detailed records of library users, including borrowing history and personal information.
- Reporting and Statistics: Generates various reports on library usage, catalog status, circulation activities, and more.
- Integration with Other Systems: Supports integration with third-party applications and digital libraries.

2. Nature and Extent of Automation

The library at PESIMSR is fully automated using the Libsoft ILMS software. This means that all core library functions, including acquisition, cataloging, circulation, serials management, and reporting, are managed through the ILMS. The full automation extends to the following:

- Cataloging and Classification: Ensures standardized format and ease of access.
- Digital Circulation System: The check-in and check-out processes are streamlined through the digital system, reducing manual errors and improving efficiency.
- Online Access to Resources: Users can search the library catalog, place holds, and renew borrowed items online through the OPAC interface.
- Acquisition and Budget Management: The acquisition module handles ordering, invoicing, and budget tracking, providing a seamless procurement process.
- Electronic Management of Journals and Serials: Subscriptions and arrivals are tracked electronically, ensuring timely updates and availability.

3. Year of Commencement and Completion of Automation

The automation of the PESIMSR library using the Libsoft ILMS began in 2010. The process involved transitioning from a manual system to a fully digital platform, which included digitizing existing records, training staff, and integrating the ILMS with other institutional systems. The full automation was completed in 2011, within a span of one year. Since then, the library has been operating with enhanced efficiency, providing seamless access to information resources for students, faculty, and researchers.
